IEEE AFRICAN WINTER SCHOOL ON INFORMATION THEORY AND COMMUNICATIONS

1-4 June 2010

Mopani Camp, Kruger National Park
South Africa

CALL FOR PARTICIPATION

It is our pleasure to announce that the first African Winter School on Information Theory and Communications will be held at the Kruger National Park from 1-4 June 2010. The goal of the winter school is to increase co-operation and knowledge sharing between African students and universities.

Doctoral students and young staff members, from Africa and other continents, are encouraged to present and discuss their ongoing research with international experts. Students are welcome to make presentations irrespective of the phase of their research. All submitted summaries will be reviewed by the technical chair. The number of topics will not be limited and we hope to have a wide range of presentations in the Information Theory and Communications field.

Study leaders are also encouraged to attend in order to establish more high-level co-operation between African and other universities.

Internationally acclaimed researchers in Information Theory and Communications are also being invited to present tutorials. We plan to host six of these.

Financial assistance will be available to participants who cannot fund the costs themselves.

Important Dates

If you would like to participate in this event, please send a one page summary of your presentation to submissions@awsitc.info by 28 February 2010. Notification of acceptance will be on or before 7 March 2010.
